

Enclosure A

Titles of books used as textbooks and as basic references on the geography of the U.S.S.R.

Berg, L. S., Natural Regions of the USSR, The Macmillan Co., 1950.

Balsah, S.S., Vasyutin, V.F., and Fergen, Y.S., editors, Economic Geography of the USSR, The Macmillan Co., 1949.

Mirov, N. T., Geography of Russia, John Wiley, 1951.

Shabad, T., Geography of the USSR: A Regional Survey, Columbia U. Press, 1950.

Gregory, James C. and Shave, The USSR, John Wiley, 1946.

Jorre, Georges, The Soviet Union, The Land and Its Peoples, Longmans, London [1950].

Mikhaylov, N. N., Across the Map of the USSR, Foreign Language Publishing House, Moscow, 1949.

Gray, G. D. B., Soviet Land, 1947.

Gressey, G. B., The Basis of Soviet Strength, McGraw-Hill, 1945.

Mikhaylov, N. N., Soviet Land and People, London, Soviet News, 1950.

Enclosure B

Courses offered on the Geography of the USSR

University of California, Berkeley [1951-52]

(124) Geography of the Soviet Union. Mr. Grev.

University of California, Los Angeles

(1238) The Geography of Eastern and Southern Europe. Mr. Kostanick.

University of Chicago [1949-50]

Sovietlands: Resources and Economic activities in their regional setting and in their distribution among the political subdivisions of the Soviet Union. Recent developments and plans for the future. Mr. Harris.

Indiana University [1949]

(227) Geography of the Soviet Sphere: A geographical analysis of the terrain resources, and economic development of the Soviet Union and those adjoining areas in Europe and Asia largely under Soviet influence. Mr. Starkey.

State University of Iowa [1949]

(44:162) The Soviet Union: Physiography, natural resources, economic and social differentiation in the Soviet Union. The geographical basis of some of the major problems of the Soviet Union. Mr. Schaefer.

University of Michigan [1949-50]

(115) Geography of the Soviet Union: Physical, economic, and political geography of the U.S.S.R. in Europe and Asia. Mr. Kish.

University of Minnesota [1950-52]

(107) Geography of the Soviet Union. Mr. Borchert.

University of Missouri [1949-50]

(396) Geography of the U. S. S. R.

Rutgers University [1950-51]

(331) Eastern Europe: An analysis of the environmental and cultural characteristics of the U.S.S.R. and its European borderlands. Mr. Weisend.

- 2 -

Enclosure B

Syracuse University [1950-51]

(140) Soviet Union, Geographic basis of Soviet strength: Expanding industry and agriculture in terms of environmental resources. Geographic regions in both Europe and Asia. Mr. Cressey.

(149) Special Problems on the Soviet Union: Special reading assignments, map projects and reports. Mr. Cressey.

(249) Research on the Soviet Union: Advanced work on Soviet Geography. Special readings, map projects and research. Mr. Cressey.

McGill University [Summer 1952]

The Soviet Union: Territorial development of Tsarist Russia and the U.S.S.R. Physical regions. Population, languages, and ethnic groups. Soviet agriculture and industry. Wartime and postwar changes in national economy.

University of Wisconsin

Geography of the Soviet Union. [Recent details unavailable. A summer course will be offered by John A. Morrison, a visiting professor, who is also reported to be scheduled to offer course during the fall and spring semester of 1952-53].